PROJECT 1 We are proposing to perform a randomized, controlled, double-blind, phase III trial comparing rituximab plus chemotherapy to chemotherapy alone for the treatment of diffuse large B-cell lymphoma (DLBCL). Compared to chemotherapy alone, rituximab plus chemotherapy has demonstrated significantly improved PFS and superior ORR, with a lower incidence of relapses and resulting in a significantly improved OS in DLBCL. However, rituximab has a significant downside of modest and short-lived responses (in about 50% of patients) when used with standard chemotherapy that are necessitated by the need to administer the 4-6 doses of rituximab required to achieve the plateau phase of the Kaplan Meier curve. In addition, the chemotherapy toxicities, including infectious complications from B-cell depletion, remain a concern. Unlike the front line setting, the treatment of relapsed and refractory DLBCL is more challenging and patients can be refractory to all previous lines of therapy. Recently
