In an age where technology has overtaken the ability of mankind to live in peace, a new power arises that must reckon with the heartless war machines and brutal methods it has awakened: The Ancient One. In the deepest recesses of the Realms Between, this power reigns supreme over the country of Elsira, the Elden Kingdom. The land where mysteries are born and souls are guided to their fate. In Elsira, the legends of the Shins of the Silver Moon, the Elden Ring Cracked 2022

Wed, 19 Nov 2013 17:18:31 GMT 1.4 - Rise 2013 [JP] I posted in the Romolept thread, but thought it'd be easier to be found here.

I'm a Level 30 Warlock, clearing through the three lower islands. I'm progressing nicely and can probably get to the fifth by tonight (probably if I want to :P).

While I have nine days of level-ups left in raw willpower, I'm constantly gaining in that attribute, which helps with levelling mechanics but moreso with healing, so I figured I'd post this thread to see what everyone else has been doing.

My main partners of this tactic are: - Witch Doctor (Purely as a healer) - Oracle (Templar) - Brawl (So that I can let her do almost all the healing when we actually hit group)

I find that even beating 5 is OK because my party is capable of 5-manning most things (with assistance of my Oracle) and doesn't take much help from me to go towards 10 men, which is fortunate since we're not

---

insanely strong.

The final three days were practically tutorials as I don't want to get too power-level up too much again before going full out.

I ended up level 15 (twice as high as my previous one, thus far) just through moving up to higher terrain and doing either War

Oklahoma City Thunder: Should Marcus Smart Watch Trade Deadline? The Oklahoma City Thunder have established a dangerous core within the organization. An incredible collection of talent from Russell Westbrook, Paul George, to Carmelo Anthony.
With the trade deadline rapidly approaching, the Thunder should look to trade one of the young core. While Marcus Smart is not the superstar talent that Westbrook and George are, he is a major piece of their

future. Brandon Knight was traded for Oklahoma City in 2016, and it could very well be the same thing for Smart. Despite carrying minutes that averaged less than five a game last season, Smart earned All-Rookie Second Team honors. With the addition of George to play next to Westbrook, the Thunder offense could be at another level. The leadership of Westbrook and George could be the best combination of player and coach that Oklahoma City has had. While the addition of George could threaten the spot of Westbrook as the primary scoring option, Marcus Smart will still be required in the offense. According to NBA.com, Smart averaged 11.9 points, 4.8 assists, and 2.0 rebounds per game last season. While not spectacular stats, they are very impressive for the level of competition. As one of the primary options in Oklahoma City's offense, Smart should not be let go during the trade deadline. A trade to a playoff team such as the Houston Rockets, Boston Celtics, or

---

---

New York Knicks could be beneficial for both parties. The Thunder are looking to take the next step in their development, and Smart could be a major piece of this. Smart would be the least regression for a playoff team and would be a benefit to them. The Thunder have made several trades in the last few seasons including trading Serge Ibaka for the year after Ibaka's rookie year. Trading Smart would be a similar move with a much larger sum of money being exchanged. Smart doesn't have the star potential that Westbrook, George, Anthony, and Carmelo Anthony do. However, he is a valuable commodity that can't be overlooked. So should Marcus Smart watch the trade deadline? Yes No Yes, he is very important to the offense. No, he should be starting. Are you sure? To vote, please sign in or register. Yes, he is very important to the offense. No, he should be starting

---
